Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. If the President didn't need Congress's approval, they could make unfair decisions without anyone stopping them.
2. Checks and balances make sure that no leader can take away people's rights by giving power to different branches.
3. One example today is when the Supreme Court reviews laws to make sure they follow the Constitution.
4. Working together helps the government make better decisions and keeps the country fair for everyone.
