

Name _____

The Escape Room Escapade

Once upon a time in a quiet suburban town, there was a group of four friends named Sarah, Mike, Emily, and Jake. They were known for their love of adventure and were always on the lookout for exciting activities to do together. One sunny Saturday afternoon, they stumbled upon a mysterious flyer that piqued their curiosity.

The flyer advertised "The Ultimate Escape Room Challenge" at a place called "Enigma Escapes." Intrigued, the friends decided to give it a try. They gathered at the entrance of the escape room, where a friendly employee named Dave welcomed them with a grin.

"Welcome to Enigma Escapes! You're about to embark on the most thrilling adventure of your lives," Dave said, handing them a set of keys. "Your mission is to solve puzzles and riddles to escape from the locked room within an hour. If you succeed, you'll earn eternal glory!"

The friends entered the room, which was filled with strange symbols, locks, and hidden clues. As the clock started ticking, they eagerly began searching for clues. Sarah was busy deciphering a cryptic message, while Mike fumbled with an old padlock. Emily and Jake explored a bookshelf filled with dusty tomes.

Minutes turned into a frenzy of activity as they found more and more clues. Emily solved a math puzzle, Mike finally unlocked the mysterious padlock, and Sarah deciphered the message to reveal the next clue. They were making great progress, but time was running out.

With just five minutes left on the clock, they stumbled upon a final clue that led to a hidden key. As they unlocked the last door, the friends cheered in triumph. They had completed the escape room with mere seconds to spare.

Back in the lobby, Dave congratulated them on their victory. "You guys are amazing! Not many teams make it out with so little time left," he said, handing them a certificate of completion. "You truly are escape room champions!"

The four friends left Enigma Escapes with a sense of accomplishment and a newfound appreciation for teamwork. They couldn't help but laugh at their frantic escape room escapade and vowed to take on even more thrilling adventures in the future.