

Name _____

George Washington's Farewell Address: A Timeless Message for America

Multiple Choice Questions

1. What is the primary message George Washington conveyed in his Farewell Address?
  - a) The importance of political parties in shaping the nation
  - b) The significance of regional identity over national identity
  - c) The dangers of political parties and the importance of national unity
  - d) The necessity of permanent alliances with foreign nations

2. What did George Washington caution against regarding political parties?
  - a) He warned against having too few political parties.
  - b) He warned against the dangers of excessive partisanship and the division it could cause.
  - c) He encouraged the formation of more political parties.
  - d) He suggested that political parties were necessary for a strong government.

3. What advice did George Washington offer regarding foreign affairs in his Farewell Address?
  - a) He urged the United States to form permanent alliances with European nations.
  - b) He emphasized the importance of staying neutral and avoiding permanent alliances with foreign powers.
  - c) He recommended that the United States should always side with France in international conflicts.
  - d) He encouraged the United States to seek foreign entanglements for economic gain.

4. What precedent did George Washington set in his Farewell Address regarding the presidency?
  - a) He established the tradition of a two-term presidency.
  - b) He announced his intention to seek a third term as President.
  - c) He emphasized the importance of a powerful executive branch.
  - d) He encouraged dynastic succession in the presidency.

5. Why is George Washington's Farewell Address considered significant in American history?
  - a) It outlined his plans to continue serving as President for multiple terms.
  - b) It warned against the dangers of excessive political involvement by citizens.
  - c) It provided guidance on foreign policy and the importance of alliances.
  - d) It highlighted the benefits of strong political parties in a democracy.

