

Name _____

George Washington's Farewell Address: A Timeless Message for America

Short Answer Key

1. George Washington's main concern regarding political parties in his Farewell Address was the potential for excessive partisanship to divide the nation and weaken the government.
2. George Washington advocated for a policy of neutrality in international affairs and cautioned against permanent alliances, emphasizing the importance of protecting American interests.
3. George Washington set the precedent of voluntarily stepping down from the presidency after two terms, establishing a tradition of a two-term presidency.
4. The message of George Washington's Farewell Address remains relevant in modern American politics because it addresses issues of excessive partisanship and the importance of national unity.
5. George Washington's Farewell Address is often referenced when discussing the potential harms of excessive partisanship because he warned against the divisive nature of political parties and their potential to weaken the government.

