The Great Lunchroom Food Fight Championship

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Answers will vary, but students might mention that Mr. Thompson's decision promoted teamwork and good sportsmanship among the students, as well as creating a fun and memorable experience.
2. Answers will vary. Possible tactics could include using spaghetti noodles as lassos or launching apple slices like frisbees to distract opponents.
3. The championship promoted teamwork and good sportsmanship by encouraging students to work together as a team, come up with creative strategies, and enjoy the absurdity of the competition. For example, they built sandwich castles for defense and used food items creatively.
4. Answers will vary, but students might propose ideas like a "Silly Hat Day" competition, where students create and wear the silliest hats, or a "Wacky Science Experiment Day" where teams conduct fun and messy science experiments. The lessons could include creativity, teamwork, and the joy of learning through play.
