Journey of Self-Discovery: A Sonnet on Finding Me

In the mirror's gaze, I start to explore,
A journey within, I yearn to know more.
The puzzle of self, an enigma untold,
A search for the truths, both young and old.
Through highs and lows, the path twists and turns,
In silence, I listen, as my heart yearns.
To understand who I am deep inside,
To accept my flaws, with arms open wide.
With each passing day, I learn and I grow,
The journey of self, a river's soft flow.
Embracing my quirks, my dreams, my fears,
I find my own voice through the laughter and tears.
So here's to the quest, to uncover and see,
The beauty of being authentically me.
