Firefly Homes: Where Lightning Bugs Light Up the World

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Protecting firefly habitats helps other animals by preserving the ecosystems that support diverse wildlife.
2. A firefly habitat near my home might have long grass, trees, and a small pond, providing shelter and moisture for fireflies.
3. Reducing artificial light helps fireflies find mates and communicate using their glowing signals.
4. People can help protect firefly habitats by preserving natural areas, reducing light pollution, and avoiding pesticide use.
