The Life of a Guppy: From Birth to Adulthood

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Guppies grow and reproduce quickly to ensure their species survives, especially in environments where predators or other dangers are present.
2. Guppy fry must avoid being eaten by adult guppies and find food to grow. They often hide in plants or rocks for protection.
3. Male guppies develop bright colors and patterns as they grow, while female guppies grow larger but remain less colorful.
4. A safe aquarium for guppy fry would include plenty of plants, hiding spots, and separate areas to protect the fry from adult guppies.
