

Name _____

Tao Te Ching by Lao Tzu

Short Answer Key

1. Wu wei is the concept of "non-action" or "effortless action" in Taoism, emphasizing action in accordance with the natural flow of the Tao, without unnecessary effort or resistance.
2. Yin and yang represent the dualistic nature of the Tao, encompassing opposites and their interdependence, symbolizing balance and harmony.
3. Sages, as described in "Tao Te Ching," are characterized by humility, compassion, wisdom, and the ability to lead by example.
4. Lao Tzu advises individuals to find harmony and balance in their lives by embracing simplicity, contentment, and the cultivation of inner virtue.
5. Lao Tzu's teachings have profoundly influenced Chinese culture, philosophy, and spirituality, emphasizing living in accordance with nature, wisdom of the Tao, and balance in all aspects of life.

