

Name _____

The Legislative Journey: What Happens if a Bill Passes in One Chamber but Not the Other?

Short Answer

1. What happens if the second chamber makes amendments or rejects a bill that was passed in the first chamber?
2. Why is it important for both chambers to agree on a unified version of the bill for it to become law?
3. What role does the conference committee play in the legislative process when there are differences between House and Senate versions of a bill?
4. How can political disagreements between the two chambers affect the progress of a bill?
5. What is the significance of the President's role in the legislative process?

