What Does a Llama Look Like?

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Llamas are well-suited for the Andes Mountains because they have thick fur for warmth, padded feet for climbing, and can carry heavy loads.
2. Their padded feet help them climb, their thick fur keeps them warm, and their split lip helps them eat plants easily.
3. Taking care of a pet llama would involve providing fresh water, plenty of hay, and space to roam.
4. Llamas are used in petting zoos and therapy programs because they are gentle, calm, and easy to handle.
