What Does a Panda Look Like?

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. People find pandas' round faces and large eyes adorable, making them seem friendly and lovable.
2. The panda's "thumb" is an example of how animals adapt to survive by developing body parts suited to their needs, like holding bamboo.
3. Without thick fur, pandas might struggle to stay warm in their cold mountain habitats.
4. Understanding a panda's body shows how its features help it survive, which can teach us more about protecting these animals and their environment.
