

Name _____

Supporting Bright Minds: A Day in the Life of an Education Paraprofessional

Short Answer Key

1. The primary responsibility of an Education Paraprofessional is to assist teachers and provide support to students in the classroom.
2. One important skill that Education Paraprofessionals need to have is patience.
3. An Education Paraprofessional might help with classroom management in the afternoon.
4. Organizational skills are important for Education Paraprofessionals because they help with classroom organization, materials, and administrative tasks.
5. Education Paraprofessionals assist teachers in adapting lesson plans to meet individual student needs by providing one-on-one or small-group support, helping with classroom management, and adapting materials.

