Peaceful Power

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Nonviolent protests showed that people could demand change without violence and helped gain support from more people.
2. They may have felt hopeful, inspired, or proud to see so many people standing together for justice.
3. People today might boycott companies that treat workers unfairly or march for causes like equal pay or climate change.
4. Fairness and equality ensure that everyone has the same opportunities and rights, no matter their race or background.
