Political Beginnings

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Answers will vary. Example: A strong government can help the country, but states should also have power to make their own decisions.
2. Answers will vary. Example: I would be a Federalist because I think a strong government is needed for the country to be successful.
3. The Bill of Rights protected freedoms like speech, religion, and fair trials, which helped the Anti-Federalists feel safer about the Constitution.
4. We still debate how much power the government should have, especially in laws, taxes, and personal freedoms.
