

Name _____

Political Power

Short Answer Key

1. They may disagree on laws, making it harder to pass new rules.
2. The Supreme Court can declare the President's actions unconstitutional.
3. Congress believed it would give the President too much power.
4. A veto is when the President rejects a law that Congress has passed.
5. Checks and balances ensure no leader or political party can control the government unfairly.

