

Name _____

Exploring Population Density and Distribution Across Continents

Short Answer

1. Explain why some areas within a continent may have high population density while others have low population density.
2. Describe two factors that influence population distribution within a continent.
3. Name one densely populated area in North America and explain why it has a high population density.
4. Why does Antarctica have no permanent human population?
5. How does climate impact population distribution in different regions of the world?

