

Name _____

Exploring Post-Impressionism: A Burst of Creative Colors

Short Answer Key

1. Post-Impressionist artists used vivid colors and bold brushwork to convey personal emotions and deeper meaning in their art.
2. Pointillism is a technique in which tiny dots of color are used to create an image that blends together when viewed from a distance. Georges Seurat is the artist associated with its development.
3. Vincent van Gogh's unique style is known for its expressive and emotive use of color and brushwork. He contributed to Post-Impressionism with works like "Starry Night."
4. Post-Impressionism aimed to express personal emotions and deeper meaning, whereas Impressionism focused on capturing the immediate visual impression of a scene.
5. Post-Impressionism influenced subsequent art movements through its emphasis on personal expression and innovative techniques, contributing to the development of Fauvism and Cubism.

