

Name _____

Power Rules

Short Answer Key

1. They didn't want to admit they were wrong, so they kept punishing people.
2. Fear made people too scared to question the judges, so they followed orders.
3. John Proctor refused to lie and stood up against the unfair trials.
4. The play shows that when leaders have too much power, they can ignore fairness and truth.
5. This relates to times when people in power accuse others unfairly, such as the Red Scare in the 1950s or false rumors today.

