

Name _____

Praying Mantises and Their Relationships with Other Species

Multiple Choice Questions

1. What is mutualism?
 - A. When one species benefits, and the other is harmed
 - B. When two species benefit from each other
 - C. When one species benefits, and the other is unaffected
 - D. When two species compete for resources

2. How do gardeners benefit from praying mantises?
 - A. Mantises keep other animals away.
 - B. Mantises create nests for other insects.
 - C. Mantises pollinate flowers.
 - D. Mantises hunt pests that harm plants.

3. What type of relationship do parasitic wasps have with praying mantises?
 - A. Mutualism
 - B. Parasitism
 - C. Commensalism
 - D. Competition

4. What does commensalism mean?
 - A. Both species benefit.
 - B. One species is harmed.
 - C. One species benefits, and the other is unaffected.
 - D. Both species are harmed.

5. Why are praying mantises considered solitary?
 - A. They prefer to hunt and live alone.
 - B. They avoid predators.
 - C. They need a lot of space to fly.
 - D. They build large nests for themselves.

