

Name _____

What Does a Raccoon Eat?

Short Answer Key

1. Raccoons are omnivores because they eat both plants and animals.
2. Raccoons like to live near water because they can find food like fish, crayfish, and clams there.
3. Raccoons' claws help them grab, dig, and catch food, such as fish or insects.
4. In cities, raccoons eat leftovers from garbage cans and food scraps in gardens or parks.
5. Raccoons are opportunistic eaters because they eat whatever food is available to them.
