All About Raccoons

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Raccoons adapt to cities by finding food in trash cans, living in abandoned buildings, and using their climbing skills to navigate urban areas.
2. Raccoons are considered clever because they can open containers, solve problems, and use their senses to survive in different environments.
3. If raccoons disappeared, there might be an increase in pests like insects and rodents, and fewer seeds would be spread to grow new plants.
4. Answers will vary. Example: "The most interesting fact about raccoons is that they dip their food in water. I think it's fascinating because it shows how clean and careful they are."
