

Name _____

Redemption's Path

Short Answer Key

1. John attended counseling sessions, joined a support group for ex-offenders, and volunteered in the community garden to rebuild his life.
2. Over time, John's neighbors went from being skeptical to supportive because they witnessed his dedication, remorse, and genuine desire to make amends through his actions in the community garden.
3. The community garden became a symbol of John's redemption and transformation. It allowed him to contribute positively to his community and demonstrate his commitment to change.
4. John earned the trust and respect of those around him through his actions and unwavering commitment to turning his life around, despite the challenges and skepticism he faced.

