

Name _____

Do Llamas Form Relationships with Other Species?

Short Answer Key

1. Llamas guard smaller livestock by scaring away predators.
2. Birds benefit by eating insects near llamas while the llamas are unaffected.
3. Ticks feeding on llamas' blood is a parasitic relationship.
4. Mutualism is important because both animals help each other survive.
5. Sheep and goats often benefit from llamas' protective nature.

