

Name _____

Rihanna: The Queen of Pop and Fashion

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Rihanna's upbringing in Barbados exposed her to Caribbean music and culture, which influenced her music style and career choices. She incorporated elements of reggae and calypso into her music, creating a unique blend of genres that set her apart in the industry.
2. The beauty industry historically lacked diversity and inclusivity. Fenty Beauty's inclusive range of shades challenged traditional beauty standards by catering to people of all skin tones. This move was important because it made makeup accessible and empowering for a more diverse audience.
3. Rihanna's Clara Lionel Foundation addresses global issues through initiatives like the Global Scholarship Program and the Clara Lionel Foundation Diamond Ball. These initiatives provide education, healthcare, and support to underserved communities, showcasing Rihanna's commitment to making a positive impact.
4. Rihanna serves as a role model by embracing her uniqueness and encouraging others to do the same. Her confidence and advocacy for self-expression have inspired individuals to challenge societal norms and embrace their individuality, fostering a more inclusive and accepting society.
