Breaking Free: A Slam on Addiction

In the depths of despair, I found my way,
To share my story, and in this slam, I'll convey.
The struggle with addiction, the darkness within,
But also the strength to break free and begin.
In shadows I wandered, lost in the night,
Chasing a high that took all my might.
The substance's grip was a merciless hold,
But deep in my heart, a story untold.
The path to recovery, it wasn't a breeze,
But with each step I took, I found inner peace.
Support and love, like a warm, guiding light,
Helped me fight the battles, day and night.
No more the chains of addiction I bear,
For I've found my freedom, my life to repair.
So let my story be a beacon of hope,
To those who are struggling, to help them cope.
