Why Doesn't Every Rooftop Have Solar Panels Yet?

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. I would make sure all houses had strong, sunny roofs and no tall trees or buildings blocking the sun. I'd also add shared solar areas for apartments.
2. Yes, because solar panels help the planet and save money. But some homes might not work, so it depends.
3. They could give money to help people buy panels or change the rules to make it easier to install them.
4. Solar energy doesn't create pollution, so it helps keep the air and water clean and fights climate change.
