

Name _____

Guiding Bright Stars: A Day in the Life of a Special Education Teacher

Short Answer Key

1. The primary responsibility of a Special Education Teacher is to provide support and tailored instruction to students with disabilities.
2. One important skill that Special Education Teachers need to have is patience.
3. A Special Education Teacher might conduct meetings with parents in the afternoon.
4. Organizational skills are important for Special Education Teachers because they need to manage individualized education plans (IEPs) and resources.
5. Special Education Teachers collaborate with parents by conducting meetings to review students' progress, discuss concerns, and plan adjustments to students' IEPs.

