The Taco That Ate My Dog

Open Ended Questions Answers

1. Max's encounter with the Taco Titan begins when he orders "The Gargantuan" taco and takes a massive bite. The taco starts growing larger and larger, eventually becoming as big as a car. Max's initial reaction is one of panic and surprise as he realizes the taco is out of control and growing uncontrollably.
2. Max stops the giant taco by racing ahead of it and reaching the town's giant ketchup bottle sculpture. He turns the nozzle and squirts ketchup all over the road. The taco, unable to resist the delicious condiment, slows down and comes to a stop. This plan works because the taco's desire for ketchup overrides its unstoppable momentum.
3. The people of Munchville react to the giant taco with panic and fear as it rolls through town, devouring everything in its path. However, when Max successfully stops the taco and saves the town, the residents cheer for him, and he becomes a local hero in their eyes. They are relieved and grateful for his quick thinking and bravery.
4. From his encounter with the taco, Max learns the lesson that one should never underestimate the power of a taco, especially one as colossal as "The Gargantuan." He realizes that even the most delicious food can become a formidable force if it gets out of control. This experience might make him more cautious in the future when trying new and unusual dishes, ensuring he doesn't face any more unexpected food-related adventures.
