Teamwork Makes the Dream Work: Being a Stellar Team Player

Short Answer Key

1. Clear and respectful communication is essential for effective teamwork because it prevents misunderstandings, promotes a positive team environment, and ensures that ideas and information are shared openly among team members.
2. Being flexible and adaptable would be valuable in a team setting when unexpected changes or challenges arise. For example, if the project's scope changes, being flexible allows you to adjust your approach and find creative solutions.
3. You can support your teammates when they face difficulties or challenges by offering help, encouragement, and a listening ear. You can also celebrate their successes and acknowledge their efforts.
4. (Answers will vary) - Students should share a personal example, describe the conflict, the steps they took to resolve it, and the outcome.
5. Balancing leadership and followership in a team is important because it allows team members to contribute their unique strengths and ideas. Sometimes, you may need to lead and guide the team, while other times, you may need to support and follow the leadership of others.
