Texts from the Future

It was an ordinary Wednesday afternoon when Tim received a mysterious text message on his smartphone. The message read, "Hello, it's you from the future! Don't freak out, but I have some important advice for you."

Tim stared at his phone in disbelief. He thought it must be a prank from one of his friends, so he decided to play along. He replied, "Oh really? What's the advice?"

Within seconds, another message appeared: "In exactly one hour, there will be a surprise pop quiz in math class. Study chapter 7, trust me!"

Tim couldn't believe his luck. He quickly opened his math textbook and started cramming chapter 7, feeling like he had a secret weapon against the pop quiz.

An hour later, his math teacher announced the surprise quiz, and Tim aced it effortlessly. He couldn't help but grin, thinking that the mysterious future texter had saved his day.

Over the next few days, Tim received more texts from his "future self." Some were practical, like stock market tips, while others were amusing, like warnings about which fashion trends to avoid.

One day, Tim received a text that said, "Beware of the talking parrot at the pet store. It knows too much." Confused but curious, Tim decided to visit the pet store mentioned in the text.

At the store, he encountered a peculiar parrot with a mischievous glint in its eye. The parrot seemed to know everything about Tim's life, from his childhood memories to his deepest secrets. It even predicted what Tim would order for lunch that day!

Terrified and intrigued, Tim left the pet store, wondering who could be behind these bizarre messages and whether they truly came from the future.

As the days passed, the messages became more cryptic and surreal. Tim received texts about UFO sightings, winning lottery numbers, and even a message that said, "Beware of the time-traveling banana peel!"

Eventually, Tim decided to investigate the source of these texts. With the help of a tech-savvy friend, they traced the messages to a hidden app on his phone that he didn't remember installing. The app had somehow gained access to his contacts and personal information.

Tim deleted the app, and the mysterious texts stopped. While he never discovered the true identity of his "future self," he couldn't deny that the adventure had been both amusing and thought-provoking.
