

Name _____

The Dragon's Midnight Roar

Open Ended Questions Answers

1. Drizzle's personality was gentle and caring, which differed from the typical characteristics of dragons, known for their fierceness and fire-breathing. His fascination with singing lullabies to animals showcased his nurturing side.
2. The forest animals reacted with surprise to Drizzle's midnight roar but decided to join him on the adventure because they were excited by the prospect of discovering the source of the mysterious sound and wanted to support their friend.
3. Drizzle's accidental midnight roar changed his perception of himself by making him realize that he had a unique and important role as the guardian of the forest, which filled him with pride and purpose.
4. The message of the story is that even the gentlest individuals can have a powerful impact and play a vital role in their community or environment when they embrace their unique qualities and talents. This message can apply to real-life situations by encouraging people to recognize and appreciate the value of their individual strengths.

