

Name _____

Threads of Change

Short Answer Key

1. Lily's "VintageVibes" social media account contributed to her mission of promoting sustainable fashion by showcasing eco-friendly fashion choices, sharing tips on incorporating vintage pieces, and emphasizing the importance of making environmentally conscious fashion decisions.
2. The EcoChic club had a significant impact on Jefferson High School by educating students about sustainable fashion, organizing workshops and clothing swaps, and promoting responsible consumption. It empowered students to make eco-friendly fashion choices.
3. Lily's decision to attend the university with a strong environmental sustainability program was influenced by her desire to combine her passion for fashion with her commitment to the environment. She wanted to learn how to create sustainable clothing and promote responsible fashion practices.
4. Lily and Isabella Gray collaborated by initiating projects that supported local artisans and communities, ensuring fair wages and sustainable practices in the production of clothing. They also advocated for transparency in the fashion industry and inspired others to embrace eco-friendly practices.
5. Lily advocated for the message that fashion could be both stylish and eco-conscious. She communicated this message to a global audience through speaking engagements, social media, and collaborations, inspiring people to make responsible fashion choices and consider the environmental impact of their clothing purchases.

