What Are Panda Predators and Threats?

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Panda cubs are more vulnerable because they are smaller, weaker, and cannot protect themselves as well as adult pandas.
2. Habitat loss affects other animals by reducing their food sources, shelters, and places to raise their young.
3. Protecting bamboo forests is important because bamboo provides food and shelter for pandas and supports the entire ecosystem where many animals live.
4. People can learn to adapt and protect their environment by studying how pandas survive and respond to challenges in the wild.
