What's on a Tiger's Menu?

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Patience allows a tiger to wait for the perfect moment to strike, increasing its chances of a successful hunt.
2. Habitat loss reduces the space where tigers can hunt, forcing them to compete for food or move to new areas.
3. Tigers might hunt livestock when their natural prey is unavailable, leading to conflicts with humans who depend on these animals.
4. People can protect tigers by conserving forests, supporting anti-poaching laws, and creating safe reserves for tigers to hunt and live.
