Tiger Time: Daily Habits and Behaviors

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Tigers hunt at night or twilight because it is cooler, and their sharp senses give them an advantage in low light.
2. A tiger's daily habits, such as hunting at night and marking territory, help it find food and avoid conflicts with other tigers.
3. If tigers lived in groups, there might be more competition for food, and it could be harder for them to survive.
4. Humans can help protect tigers by conserving forests, reducing habitat destruction, and supporting laws that prevent poaching.
