

Name _____

The Reversed Universe Portal

One sunny afternoon, a group of adventurous kids named Sam, Emma, Mia, and Max stumbled upon an old, dusty book in their neighborhood library. The book, titled "The Portal to the Reversed Universe," contained cryptic clues and illustrations that piqued their curiosity.

Following the book's instructions, the kids embarked on a quest to find the mysterious portal. After deciphering the riddles and navigating through hidden passages, they discovered an ancient mirror with intricate engravings. As they touched the mirror's surface, a swirling vortex enveloped them, and they found themselves in a parallel universe where everything was reversed.

In this bizarre world, the sky was orange, trees had upside-down roots, and people walked on their hands instead of their feet. Sam and Emma had switched personalities, Mia's hair was green instead of brown, and Max could speak only in rhymes. Despite the challenges, the kids were determined to explore this strange new world.

They encountered talking animals that spoke in riddles, lakes that flowed upwards, and gravity-defying houses. To return home, they needed to solve a series of reverse puzzles. As they worked together and used their wits, they slowly began to unravel the mysteries of the reversed universe.

After days of adventure, the kids finally discovered the reversed portal hidden in a cavern. It required them to think backward and use their newfound knowledge to unlock it. As they stepped through the portal, they returned to their own world, bringing with them the memories of their extraordinary journey.