

Name _____

Unraveling Equations: Understanding Differential Equations

Short Answer

1. What is a key component of a differential equation?
2. What does the dependent variable represent in a differential equation?
3. What type of equations describe how quantities change over time or space?
4. What is an example of a dependent variable in a differential equation?
5. In which field are differential equations used to model economic variables?

