

Name _____

Valuing Everyone

Short Answer Key

1. Some crayons were used too much, while others were ignored or only used for specific things.
2. Duncan created a new picture where every crayon had an important role and was used in a fun way.
3. Pink Crayon felt overlooked because it was only used for one thing (princess dresses) instead of other creative possibilities.
4. Black Crayon wanted to be used for something exciting, like coloring in bold shapes, instead of just outlines.
5. The passage teaches that fairness means giving everyone a chance to contribute, and creativity grows when different ideas are valued.
