

Name _____

Voices Left Out

Short Answer Key

1. Enslaved people were not considered citizens and had no rights.
2. They wanted states to decide about slavery, which allowed it to continue.
3. Both groups wanted more land, and Indigenous people feared losing their homes.
4. Federalists wanted a national government to make treaties, while Anti-Federalists wanted states to control land.
5. Indigenous land was taken, and many communities were forced to move.

