

Name _____

Kids and Family Decisions: Should Their Voices Matter?

Multiple Choice Questions

1. What is one benefit of involving kids in family decisions, according to the article?

- a) Understanding and empathy
- b) Ignoring kids' opinions
- c) Reducing responsibility
- d) Weakening family bonds

2. How does involving kids in family decisions help build their skills?

- a) By making all decisions for them
- b) By teaching them responsibility and decision-making
- c) By limiting their involvement
- d) By undermining their confidence

3. Why does involving kids boost their self-confidence?

- a) Because it doesn't matter if their opinions are heard
- b) Because their opinions matter and are heard
- c) Because they don't need self-confidence
- d) Because it weakens family bonds

4. How does involving kids in decision-making affect family bonds?

- a) It has no impact on family bonds
- b) It weakens family bonds
- c) It strengthens family bonds
- d) It reduces kids' confidence

5. What important skill do kids learn through involvement in decision-making?

- a) Ignoring others' opinions
- b) Compromise and finding solutions
- c) Avoiding responsibility
- d) Making all decisions themselves

