Name _____

Kids and Family Decisions: Should Their Voices Matter?

Short Answer

1. Explain one way in which involving kids in family decisions can lead to greater understanding and empathy.

2. Describe how giving kids a say in decisions can help build their responsibility and decision-making skills.

3. How does involving kids in family decisions strengthen family bonds? Provide an example.

4. Why is it important for kids to learn about compromise through their involvement in decision-making?

5. Share your opinion on whether kids should have a say in family decisions and provide a reason to support your view.

© ReadingDuck.com