

Name _____

Whispers of the Wind

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. The wind's role as a messenger of secrets from distant lands emphasizes that the world is interconnected, as it carries stories and knowledge from different places to share with others. This highlights the idea that all people and places are linked in some way, forming a web of shared experiences.
2. The wind is described as a mystical messenger because it carries secrets and stories from far-off places that seem magical and mysterious. This description adds an element of wonder and enchantment to the wind's character in the poem.
3. The poem suggests that by listening closely to nature, particularly to the whispers of the wind, we can gain insights and wisdom about the world and our place in it. It encourages us to be attentive and appreciative of the natural world around us.
4. The wind in the poem symbolizes the flow of knowledge, secrets, and stories that connect people and places. It represents the idea that there is a deeper meaning and interconnectedness in the world beyond what is visible on the surface, which is a common theme in symbolist literature.
