Wolves: Daily Habits and Behaviors

Open-Ended Response Answer Key

1. Teamwork is important for wolves when hunting because it allows them to take down larger prey and increases their chances of success.
2. Living in a pack helps wolves survive by making hunting more efficient, protecting territory, and sharing responsibilities like caring for pups.
3. Without communication, wolves would struggle to organize hunts, defend their territory, or find lost pack members, reducing their chances of survival.
4. Wolves are considered successful predators because of their teamwork, strong physical abilities, and excellent communication skills.
