

Name _____

Dinoville

In the quiet town of Dinoville, there was a young girl named Ellie who had an extraordinary talent - she could talk to dinosaurs! This unique ability had made her the town's very own "Dino Detective."

One sunny morning, Ellie received an urgent call from the Dinoville Museum. It seemed that their prized possession, a giant T-Rex skeleton, had gone missing! The entire town was in shock, and they needed Ellie's help to solve the mystery.

Ellie arrived at the museum, where the director, Mr. Johnson, greeted her with a worried expression. He explained that the T-Rex had vanished overnight without a trace. The police couldn't find any clues, and it had everyone baffled.

Ellie took a deep breath and approached the empty display where the T-Rex once stood. She closed her eyes and concentrated, trying to connect with her dinosaur friends. After a few moments, she opened her eyes and exclaimed, "I know who did it!"

The townsfolk gathered around, eager to hear Ellie's discovery. She explained that her dino friend, Dizzy the mischievous Velociraptor, had confessed to borrowing the T-Rex for a late-night dance party in the museum! Apparently, Dizzy had wanted to impress his fellow dinosaurs with his slick dance moves.

Ellie and Mr. Johnson followed Dizzy's footprints, and they led straight to a hidden door behind a large mural. They opened the door and discovered Dizzy and the T-Rex skeleton, wearing a top hat and dancing to some catchy tunes.

Dizzy looked sheepish but relieved to see Ellie. She gently scolded him for taking the T-Rex without permission and reminded him that honesty was the best policy. Dizzy apologized and promised never to borrow any museum exhibits again.

As Ellie and Mr. Johnson returned the T-Rex skeleton to its display, the townsfolk couldn't help but chuckle at the sight of the dancing dinosaur. It turned out to be a day filled with laughter and the relief of solving the mysterious disappearance.

From that day on, Dizzy became the town's favorite dancing dinosaur, and Ellie continued her role as the beloved Dino Detective of Dinoville, ready to solve any dino-related mystery that came her way.