Zog the Alien

One sunny afternoon, as Tommy was playing in his backyard, he noticed something strange in the sky. It wasn't a bird or a plane—it was a spaceship! Tommy's eyes widened with excitement as he watched the spaceship land gently in his neighbor's yard.

Curiosity got the best of him, and he decided to investigate. As he tiptoed closer to the spaceship, the door slowly opened, and out stepped an alien named Zog. Zog had green skin, three eyes, and a big smile on his face.

"Hi there!" Zog chirped. "I'm Zog from the planet Zogar. I'm here to explore your planet."

Tommy couldn't believe his eyes. "You're an alien? That's amazing!"

Zog nodded. "Yep, and I come in peace. I've heard so much about your Earth, and I wanted to see it for myself."

Tommy and Zog quickly became friends. Zog had never seen a playground before, so Tommy took him to the park. Zog tried the swings, the slide, and even the merry-go-round. But every time he spun around, his three eyes got all mixed up, and he stumbled off laughing.

Next, they went to the ice cream parlor. Zog was amazed by all the flavors. He decided to try the weirdest one - broccoli ice cream! Tommy laughed as Zog made a funny face after taking a bite.

As the sun began to set, Tommy's mom called him home. He said goodbye to Zog and promised to meet him again tomorrow.

The next day, Tommy introduced Zog to his friends, and they all played together. They taught Zog how to play hide and seek and even tried to teach him to ride a bicycle. Zog wobbled and zigzagged on the bike, making everyone laugh.

Before Zog had to leave, he gave Tommy a small gadget that could make silly noises. "For you, my Earth friend," Zog said with a wink.

Tommy and Zog waved goodbye as the spaceship lifted off and disappeared into the sky. It was an unforgettable encounter, and Tommy knew that he had made a friend from a galaxy far, far away.
